Features of Institutional Licenses

Science has been at the center of important scientific discovery since its founding in 1880 with seed money from Thomas Edison. Today, Science continues to publish the very best in research across the sciences, with articles that consistently rank among the most cited in the world. Institutional subscriptions deliver the following features:

Site-wide online access

Authorized users of institutional subscriptions receive access to Science Online content by way of IP authentication, meaning patrons do not need to individually register in order to benefit from their institution's holdings. Subscribers may also extend access to authorized remote sites without any additional fees.

First Release

Our pre-publication service, Science First Release (previously called Science Express), provides early access to selected research papers, perspectives, and other articles that have recently been accepted for publication in Science as much as six weeks before final publication. All Science Online subscribers will receive access to Science First Release as part of their institutional subscription.

Multi-product discounts

For institutions that purchase more than one title in the Science family of journals (not including Science Classic), bundled discounts are available at the following rates:

- Science Online + 1 additional title: 5% off all titles
- Science Online + 2 additional titles: 7% off all titles
- Science Online + 3 additional titles: 10% off all titles
- Science Online + 4 additional titles: 15% off all titles

Perpetual access rights

Our standard institutional licensing agreement now makes provisions for perpetual access to purchased subscription content, including post-cancellation access.

Text and data mining

Our licensing agreement now allows institutional customers to take advantage of text and data mining for non-commercial uses.
